

Components of: THE ELSIE INITIATIVE FOR WOMEN IN PEACE OPERATIONS

Focused on sustainability, complementarity, and innovation to create transformational change.

Launched in 2017 to increase the meaningful participation of uniformed police and military women in UN peace operations.

AREAS OF INQUIRY

The many components of the Elsie Initiative will innovate and help build a knowledge base to answer five key questions by the end of this pilot project:

- How do women peacekeepers enhance the operational effectiveness in peace operations?
- Do financial incentives work to increase the meaningful participation of uniformed women?
- How can deployment processes provide more equitable opportunities for uniformed women?
- What approaches are effective in the T/PCC context to address barriers to women's participation?
- What constitutes a receptive environment for uniformed women peacekeepers in UN missions?
